East Parking Lot Opening Nears

Though slowed a bit by weather, asphalt arrives tomorrow on the east side of The Base. That's a sign that the "early June" prediction for opening the new East Parking Lot is on target. The roadway, bridge, trail, and other elements of the roadway project are also continuing to advance toward a late Summer completion. Track the project, including photos and a project diary, online.

No "Weathering the Storm" Here

In addition to the highly-visible roadway/bridge project, there are a number of other capital projects under way at the COATC. In fact, since September 2008, over $17 million worth of projects have begun or have been announced. This level of investment proves that the Port Authority and its customers are not waiting for the economy to pick up or, as the saying commonly goes, "weathering the storm" waiting for things to improve. We are have continued and are continuing to invest.

In the News: Vibrant, Success Story

Positive news is a hard thing to come by. That's why we're proud to have been featured in a very positive editorial from The Advocate early this month calling the Port Authority "one of our community's best success stories." Also, Port Authority Chairman Steve Layman was recognized by Newark Rotary this week with its prestigious Bravo Award. The award is given to a Rotarian in honor of their community involvement.
